HOW TO CHOOSE A PROGRAM

Have you attended an in-person or online Study Abroad 101 yet? If not, find a time to attend and learn important initial information about studying abroad.

Identify your goals and desired outcomes for your experience abroad.

Review the types of programs information to determine what best suits you timeline and goals.

Search for a program using criteria that are important to you.

Schedule a Study Abroad Advising Appointment to discuss any remaining questions and for guidance to select a program.

CONSULT YOUR ACADEMIC ADVISOR

Discuss a good time for you to study abroad and how the courses you take abroad will fit into your academic plan. Complete the Course Approval Form in consultation with your academic advisor. Note: Course Approval is not applicable to Faculty-Led programs.

CONSIDER YOUR FINANCIAL SITUATION

Review the payment and financial aid policies for your selected program. Please note that financial aid can be used only for credit-bearing experiences. You should also explore scholarships and fellowships for which you might be eligible.

TALK TO YOUR FAMILY

It's important to discuss studying abroad with your family. The more informed they are, the more comfortable they will feel. Refer your family to our Parents & Family page for useful information about study abroad.

FAQS

<http://www.pace.edu/study-abroad/step-by-step-guide/faq#faq6>

Who is eligible to study abroad?

Students with a 2.5 GPA, 32 Pace Credits, and a clear disciplinary clearance are eligible to study abroad. Some programs require a higher GPA or junior academic status. Freshman are eligible to study during their first year at Pace University only on a select few faculty led study abroad programs or at a university included in the Freshmen Semester Abroad program.

What courses can I take abroad and how many?

You should take courses required by your Pace degree program if you do not want to fall behind your education schedule. You must obtain approval from your Department Chairpersons to take courses abroad. Courses taken without approval may not be applied to your Pace degree. If you begin your study abroad planning early, you will likely have more flexibility in choosing your courses while overseas. Please use the Course Approval Form when obtaining approvals. You may carry a course load of up to 18 credits per semester, although it is advised that you take the standard 12-15 full time credits in order to leave time to experience and adjust to the culture. During the summer term, students generally take 3-6 credits abroad.

Alternate Program Options

Inquire with the Pace Education Abroad Staff about billing and financial aid portability for semester abroad programs which fall outside of the Pace Exchange and Pace Global Partner programs.

JANUARY TERM AND SUMMER PROGRAMS

- A $100 Study Abroad Fee is billed to the Pace student account.
- Program fees (Tuition and Fees, Room) are the responsibility of the student and are paid directly to the host institution.
- Out-of-pocket expenses (airfare, meals, local transportation, etc.) are the responsibility of the student.

What do I need to do to if I decide not to study abroad after I have been accepted?

The Study Abroad Office, and program provider (if applicable) must be notified in writing, of your decision to withdraw from a program as soon as possible. Students are responsible for reading and understanding the cancellation/withdrawal policies and deadlines of the program they are withdrawing from. If a student does not follow cancellation/withdrawal deadlines, they risk losing any program fees, housing fees, and possible partial/full tuition for the term.
