How Transferability is Determined(College of Letters & Science)

<http://www.duels.ucsb.edu/advising/planning/transfer-credit>

The Office of Admissions determines transferability of coursework after you present an official transcript of the work. You can contact the College Advising Office or the Office of Admissions for advising and information before enrolling in an outside class, but the final decision rests with the Office of Admissions after your transcript is received.

In other words, you cannot have complete assurance about whether or not your outside coursework will transfer. The following guidelines can help you avoid disappointment:

- 1.Your course must be completed at an accredited college or university and must be reported on an official transcript.
- 2.Your course must cover the same depth and breadth of a subject as UC courses.
- 3.Your course must be listed and described in a college's catalog for the regular year. Note that courses taken through non-University of California extension programs are not always transferable. Within the University of California, UC Extension courses are transferable only if numbered 1-199.
- 4.Credit will not be allowed for any coursework that substantially duplicates a course you already have completed.
- 5.Credit also will not be allowed for any math or foreign language course that is less advanced than those you already have completed.
- 6.Keep in mind that courses within traditional academic disciplines (e.g., science, literature, and social sciences) generally are transferable. The following types of courses are not transferable:
 - 1.Courses that are vocational, technical, or professional in nature (e.g., advertising, real estate, electronics)
 - 2.Remedial courses
 - 3.Personal enrichment (e.g., to how to use your personal computer).

If you take non-UCSB courses that you hope will count as prerequisites for future UCSB courses, you must do both of the following:

1. Ask the school in question to send an official transcript to the UCSB Office of the Registrar.
2. Bring a copy of your transcript to the appropriate department (the department in which you are attempting to enroll in a course) for verification. Staff in that department can then mark your record to show that you have fulfilled the prerequisite(s) needed for the course you wish to take.

Other schools may also enforce prerequisites for courses. It is wise to keep your transcript(s) accessible at all times.

General Education Courses

There are two ways to help increase the likelihood that your GE coursework will be accepted for credit:

1. When you are choosing a course, carefully review the UCSB GE Program Requirements for each subject area. Pick courses that seem to correspond to UCSB's program.
2. Before you enroll in an off-campus course, meet with an academic advisor in the College Advising Office to confirm whether your desired coursework is applicable to the GE Program. Also see the UCSB General Education Program Outcomes and Transfer Guide to see how courses from other institutions, including study abroad courses, are assessed for General Education Requirements. This can provide some assurance of the course's applicability to a GE by petition, though the course must still be accepted for credit before such a petition would be possible. The final decision on transferability of course credit rests with the Office of Admissions after you complete the course and submit your transcript.

Major Coursework

Lower-Division Major Coursework

Lower-division major coursework can be completed at a community college or at a 4-year university. If you are interested in completing lower-division major coursework at a community college, visit Assist.org to determine which courses are relevant to your major.

Upper-Division Major Coursework

Upper-division major coursework must be completed at a 4-year university. If you hope to transfer upper-division coursework from another university, speak with your departmental advisor and an advisor in the College of Letters and Science Advising Office.

Upper-Division Coursework at Another Institution

All upper-division coursework must be completed at a 4-year university. In addition, each course you take at another university must be considered upper-division by that school in order for UCSB to accept it for upper-division credit.

Make sure the courses you intend to take are, in fact, upper-division. You can verify this by reviewing your other university's catalog.
